Our house didn't even show up on the map, look RESE AREA. The transmission lines will be literally in our front yard! We are afraid that a kind of environmental racism is going to occur here. This would be a good project if select areas could be considered for underground transmission. People who bought property on the Sangre de Cristo Ranches years ago are now building retirement homes. High voltage lines could interfere with this development. No, Nelson's comment: The poles have to be in someone's front yard. does not reduce our concerns. Why do we need these high voltage lines/towers? too extreme!
